Jump Start High Risk Prevention Program is for infants and toddlers who are identified as being “at risk” for developmental delays. This parent-child small group program facilitated by licensed Pediatric physical therapists, occupational therapists and speech-language pathologists will provide parent education and guided practice regarding strategies to facilitate gross and fine motor skills, cognition, speech and language, feeding, and social skills, allowing the carryover of learned techniques into everyday life.

WHO: Infants and toddlers considered to be “at risk” for a developmental disability are those who have one or more factors generally associated with developmental delay or disability, such as low birth weight, prematurity, medical complications at birth, and prenatal exposure to drugs or alcohol.

WHEN: 1 hour small group classes. Please contact Kids in Motion Pediatric Therapy for available days and times. Participants are grouped according to developmental ability.

WHERE: Kids in Motion Pediatric Therapy
